We want more effort put on the first of the objects which your by-laws provide-that is, to secure the concurrent and harmonious action of the different charitable and benevolent societies of Hawaii. You have now but eighteen of these affiliated in your work, and there are some eighty in existence.

"We want more justification for the existence of this association and less existence of this association and less of

of the appearance of the usurpation of functions of other societies. "The least wise but easiest response to an appeal for assistance is simply to give money. Likewise to disburse the funds of other societies is perhaps the ensiest method of procedure, but we believe this association should not relieve other societies entirely of their restionsibilities.

Such Is Opinion Expressed Regarding Decision in Kealoha Case by Mixed Jury.

(Mail Special to The Advertiser.) HILO, January 25, Supervisor John Governor Carter at Annual found guilty of the embeaziement of $45, paid to him as road supervisor by former Auditor Chas, Maguire for croshed rock belonging to the county. The verdict was a great surprise to every one, it had been expected quite generally that a mistral would result. Prominent among Mormon church, which has been roundly condemned by many, and which seems to have been close to blusphemy, if the reports concerning it are true. Report reports concerning it are true. Report had it that the Mormon church, with which Kealoha sought refuge when he got into trouble, had offered prayers for him, not only in Hilo, but on the other falunds as well. It was further reported that the elders promised that their prayers would secure a verdict of not guilty for Kealoha, and that such a verdiet would be proof of the efficacy of their prayers. Finally, report had it to the jury, Mr. McBride, 's said Judge that a large number of Hawaiians were on the tentative waiting list as prose. McBride snapped out the same objeclytes in case the miracle should prove the assertion of the elders.

Hard on McBride. It is sald that Kealoha went to his counsel, telling him about this. "The Mormon God is with me," he is reported to have said. "If you let me go to jail, you will go to hell."
"That may be true," Claudius is said to have reforted, with ready wit. "But in that ease you will go to jail before I go to hell."

Chas. Magnire is reported to bave said that one of the guards at the Oahu prison, a Mormon, told him that his congregation was praying for the acquittal of Kealoha.

During the trial McBride was openly given much sympathy; for, if he lost the case, he got the blame; if he won, the Mormons were believed to be ready to claim the credit. A Mormon elder was present during

A notable feature of the case was the absence of the famous Kealoha smile during the last two days of the case It is said to have been banished for the time being by the order of McBride who thought it might have a bad effect ducted for all; where only rurely is on the jury. The Argument.

Argument did not begin until at ten o'clock Friday morning, when Deputy County Attorney Heen opened for the secution. He begin by expressing the jury his reluctance at having to secute the defendant, with whom he prosecute the defendant, with whom he had for several years had pleasant relations. Heen went over the evidence very carefully, and called attention to the fact that there was something more at stake in this matter than the mere conviction of the defendant—the eyes conviction of the defendant—the eyes conviction of the defendant—the eyes of people outside of Hile were on this community, and as a matter of fact, the capacity of the people of the County of Hawait for self-government was being weighed in the balance.

Alchride argued at some length. His main contestion was that even if an offense had been committed, it had not been the one charged in the indictment.

"The evidence shows are releasured and

"The evidence shows carelessness and an easy-going way," he argued, "but there was no thought of wrong-doing in the heart of John Kealoha, and if he did embessee anything, it was the prop erty of the Territory and not of the

"If Kealoba formed the intention to embezzie the money when he received it from Charlie Maguire, then you must find him guilty," continued McBride. "But if you find that he formed the intention from the beginning of transaction with Magnire, then must not find him guilty, for in that case he was not trying to embezzie money, but he was trying to embezzle

Species at Field

McBride paid Gooding Field the com liment of paying particular vehement attention to him and his testimony Referring to him constantly as Gooding-Good-Government Field, Good-Govern-ment at-Five - Hundred Dollars a Month Field and other cheap pleasantries, sicering at him as a "detective" and employing the other meretricious tactics used in this sort of oratory, McBride insisted that Field was a violent partisan who wanted to see John Kealoha convicted in this case, as otherwise people might begin to enquire as to what good they were getting from paying Field $500 a month. Claudins expresse? wonder at what Pield would not do for $500 a month.

Parsons Accused. Towards the end of his harapgue McBride capped the climax by accusing Judge Parsons of being biased and prejudiced in favor of the prosecution In view of the particularly high regard which Judge Parsons holds in this community, the absurdity, even the im-possibility of such a thing, struck those present with the sense of disgust at the insolence of the accusation. It was not the mere fact that the charge was made, as it was made to serve as a hasis for an exception, but the way in which it was done, and the studied manner in which opportunity was sought for the repetition of the charge which made such a bad impression.

McBride started the thing by reading to the jury bits culled from the instructions, which is not proper. "Will you waive the reading of the instructions at this time, Mr. Mc-Bridet" asked the court, courteously.

"In that way we can avoid reading them twice to the jury."

"I note an exception to the remarks of the court as showing bins and preju-dice," flung back McBride. He then, with unction, had the statement of the by the stenographer, as well as his own so far.

A bit later Claudius was at it again reading from the instructions to the jury. The court will read the instructions tion on the grounds of bias and preju-dice on the part of the court. "I think I have a right to read these instructions. The court holds that I have not," he clucidated to the jury. "In this court I must abide by the rules of this court, and I will not read the instructions, although I think I have a right to do so.".

But a little while later McBride was at it again. He started to explain the instructions to the jury. Mr. McBride, you cannot explain that, and the court cannot," said the McBride instantly noted, with gusto

his bias and prejudice objection The argument lasted until about four o'clock, when court was adjourned until Saturday morning for further argu-Breckons' Summing Up.

Breekons' argument lasted exactly an hour and was as careful and temperate as the defense's had been impassioned and stormy. Breekons went over the evidence in sequence, showing how the defense had been purely one of law, the facts not having been disputed.

"The nearest approach on the part counsel to claim innocence or hon-ty," said Breckons, "was his argucaty. ment that the explanation lay, perhaps, in Kealoha's being guilty only of care-lessuess; and that is no defense."

Breekons also referred to McBride's attack on Gooding Field, "Mr. Mc-Bride asks you," was his conclusion, "that you acquit Mr. Kealoha because Gooding Field got five hundred dollars a month.

'The matter of John Kealoha, personally, is a comparatively unimportant one," he said in closing, "The mat-County of Hawaii is a comparatively unimportant one. Much more important than these is the principle which is at stake. Shall it be said that a man who admits, or who does not deny, that he did take money, and who sets up a defense which the court has ruled was not good, can go unpunished because you, citizens of the County of Hawaii, return a verdict of not guilty.

Heen that it is the electorate of Hawaii which is on trial; civic honesty is on trial. Return a verdict of not guilty, under the circumstances which I have outlined to you, and you will mark it down that a man can steal in the County of Hawaii and can go free; that a and can still sit as a member of the board of supervisors. Are you, as members of the electorate of the County of Hawaii, of the Territory of Hawaii, of the United States, going to let that be said ! In this matter your responsiofficers of the prosecution, than is that of the court.

Honesty in Public Office. The question is: Shall honesty in pub. It had been absolutely fair.

Treasurer Conkling Says Three Things Stare Territory in Face -Generous Cut in Expenditures, Levying of a Special Tax or the Calling of Special Session of Lawmakers.

Heads of departments will have to out down expenses if they are to live within the revenues of the Territory. The pruning knife will soon be wielded by the Governor whether these same heads of departments cut down or not and if this will not turn the trick the chances are that a special session to consider revenues and amend the appropriation bills passed by the last legislature will have to be called within the not distant future. Governor Pinkham is known to be opposed to calling a special session, which will at best cost the Territory many thousands of dollars, but the present financial situation of the Territory seems to be such, that unless there is a voluntary and radical ent in ex-penses in all departments, this will have to be done.

Payored by Banana Jack,

There are a number of members of the house of representatives in Honolu u who are known to favor a special for obvious reasons, these being Archie Robertson and E. J. McCandless, Kupihea, "Too Bad" Jack S. Kainkiels, Kaniho and others would be ready to answer the call of duty, it is said, and incidentally draw whatever pay there would be coming from such a special session.

Senator Charles A. Rice and Representative J. H. Coney, who are now in the city, are known to be strongly opposed to a special session for many reasons, one of which being that the next regular session is now only about a year off and the Territory could worry along without much difficulty until that time, It is claimed.

"Some heads of departments have not yet come to a realization that they have to cut down in expenses all along the line, stated Territorial Treasurer D. L. Conkling yesterday. Conkling has been figuring for months on the revenues and expenditures of the Territory and more than once he has sounded the note of warning, but which court taken down in the official record has apparently been sounded in vain

Face Three Things, Says Conkling.

"We have three things staring as in the face," continued Mr. Conkling yes-terday, "a special session of the leg-islature, a special tax or then a generous cut in expenditures.

"Each head seems to think that it not his department which should stand the cut, which is absolutely imperative, and that the sums appropriated by the legirlature must necessarily be

"With a reduction in the territorial income staring as today in the face, of from twenty live to forty per cent, if the heads of departments can't see their way clear to cut, and cut deep at that, it will be up to a special session, if the Governor sees fit to call one, to cut appropriations, but I think that the Tovernor is getting his pruning knife ready and will have a whack at

"I believe the Governor will be able to show the way in which generous reductions may be made without crippling the efficiency of any of the de-partments in particular or of the system of government in general."

lie office be insisted upon ? It is not a question of sending Johnnie Kenloha to jail, but to stand out for what is right and honest and not to sanction dishonesty.

"I do not know whether I do right in referring to this matter or not, but I am going to do so. You know it has been stated, the report is sometimes made that the Hawalians in public of-fices do not handle public tunds as they should, and that the Hawalians do not exactly hold that to be a crime. I do not agree with that view; and I shall not do so until I have seen more proof thereof than I have until today.

"I ask every man on this jury who is not of the Hawaiian race, not to convict the defendant because he is a Hawnilan. "And I ask every man on this jury who has Hawaiian blood in him, not to watinn. "If you think him guilty, show the world by your vote that you Hawalians are as law abiding and ready to do your duty as is any man of any other race." In closing Breekons referred to the significant fact that, while the defense had piled up a mountain of objections, a single objection had been made by the prosecution throughout the en-tire hearing. The prosecution had taken advantage of no technicalities.

Honolulu Financiers Think Tariff Scare Has Affected the City Very Little.

HILO, January 25,-Frank C. Atherton advises the Hilo busin confine their energies to their board of trade and stop talking of organizing a merchants' association. He came to Hilo last week with Clarence Cooke, to attend the annual meeting of the First Bank of Hilo and the First Trust Company of Hilo, and was surprised at the expressions of opinion he heard among some of the retail dealers in favor of a merchants' association. "You know, we have just amalgamated our chamber of commerce and merchants' association in Honolule,': said Mr. Atherton, 'and now, it seems, you people in Hilo are thinking of do-ing just what we have got away from.

Only Committee Work. "I understand that the reason for the wish to start a merchants' exchange installed to accommodate families who prefer to useupy one large apartment. These rooms are fitted with brass bed-steads and are newly Turnished. It is expected that the same improvements will be made in the Schoom and Venture. that object might very well be met by creating a committee under the board of trade, for the purpose of taking up just such questions, and composed of members of the business houses inter-eated."

Find Hilo Conditions Good. "From your examination of the bank business conditions here de you think that the tariff situation is af think that the tariff situation is affecting Hilo more than Honololut" both Mr. Cooke and Mr. Atherton were asked. "We are inclined to believe here that we are at a disadvantage because the sugar industry is our one big main factor in business, while Honolulu has the tourist trade, the army and other factors."

"No. Hilo business appears to us, from what we have seen, to be even less affected than is that of Honolula," agreed the two visitors. "Hilo shows better condition."
